

Detail of Paul Cézanne's Gulf of Marseille

All required supplies for this lesson, along with their direct shopping links, are listed below.

All paint colors can be bought through Michaels, either online or directly at their retail locations (with locations available in all 50 states). Michaels offers a lot of discounts if ordering online. You can find your nearest retail location with the following link: <https://www.michaels.com/store-locator>

The Liquitex BASICS™ acrylic paint line is recommended to achieve the results featured in this lesson. As an economic alternative, you can use the thinner DecoArt® Americana® acrylic paint line; however, the final result will differ due to the color variations and paint consistencies.

This lesson can be painted on your choice of stretched canvas, canvas board, or heavyweight paper.

This lesson's required paint colors and brushes are listed on the next page.

If ordering on michaels.com, its color dropdown menu has a search bar where you can type in the lesson's color names. Occasionally, the dropdown menu's search name is slightly different from the actual color name on the paint tube. For your convenience, we have provided Michaels' dropdown menu names in the 2nd column of the color chart below.

If you prefer to use the DecoArt® Americana® brand, we have provided the closest color match in the 3rd column of the chart, although the two paint lines do not have exact color matches.
